

"And NOW — I'm strong and healthy again!"

"Some time ago I was always feeling tired. I grew very weak and got no pleasure out of life. Then a friend advised me to take Sanatogen and — look at me now! I am fit and vigorous again and feel thoroughly happy."

That world-famous Medical Paper, "The Lancet," writes about the strengthening influence of Sanatogen: "There is abundant evidence of the value of Sanatogen as a restorative and food, and more particularly in cases of general debility."

When you do not feel so well, start taking Sanatogen. Every chemist sells it and Sanatogen will soon make you thoroughly strong, and healthy again, full of youthful vitality.

EARLY START ON NEW GIANT CUNARD

Government Agrees To £5,500,000 Order For Clydeside

TO BE BIGGER AND FASTER THAN THE QUEEN MARY

London, July 29.

An early start will be made on the construction of a sister ship to the Queen Mary following the decision of the Government, announced in the House of Commons yesterday, to afford financial assistance.

Mr. Morrison, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, informed the House that the Government had agreed that the order should be placed with John Brown and Company of Clydebank.

The Daily Telegraph understands that the new vessel will be 2,000 tons greater than the Queen Mary's 80,773 tonnage.

Cost £5,500,000 to build—£500,000 more.
Be of greater power and faster, but more economical in fuel consumption.

As 15 months will be occupied in constructing the hull the launching ceremony may be expected in the autumn of Coronation year.

The decision of the Cunard-White Star line to place the new order with the builders of the Queen Mary was foreshadowed in The Daily Telegraph on July 2.

SMALLER SHIP PLAN DROPPED

Ensuring Comfort

BY HECTOR C. BYWATER

I understand that the complete specifications for the new liner have already been prepared jointly by John Brown & Company and the technical staff of the Cunard-White Star Company.

A number of tests with models of the new ship have been made in the experimental tank at Clydebank.

As the berth on which the Queen Mary was built is ready to take the keel of an even bigger vessel, a start can be made as soon as the necessary structural material is delivered at the yard.

The new giant liner should be ready for sea in less than three years from the laying of the keel plates. It is possible that this time will be considerably reduced.

"NO. 552"

WORK FOR THOUSANDS

Until she takes the water she will be known as "No. 552," but it is highly probable that she will ultimately bear the name of King George V.

No fewer than 3,000 Clydebank workers will be directly employed in building the hull and machinery. Many thousands of others will be working on the equipment.

By far greater part of her cost of £5,500,000 will be paid in wages.

It can now be disclosed that the Cunard-White Star directors had under consideration recently the building of a ship much smaller and cheaper than the Queen Mary, but equally fast.

Complete plans for such a vessel were drafted by one of our leading shipbuilding firms.

BIGGER SHIP BEST

MORE SEAWORTHY

Eventually, the directors decided in favour of a large ship on the ground that great size alone could give the degree of seaworthiness and passenger comfort at which they aimed.

The new ship may show important modifications in the moulding of the hull and the lay-out of superstructure and funnels, based on experience with the Queen Mary in the varying conditions of Atlantic weather.

The turbine machinery and gearing will embody technical improvements due to progress in engineering design since the first ship was begun, while the number of boilers will be reduced.

An entirely new decorative scheme is anticipated, but it is improbable that the general appointments will be more luxurious than the Queen Mary's.

Some idea of the size of the new vessel can be gained from the following particulars of the Queen Mary:

Length, overall, 1,020ft;
Breadth, 118ft;

Depth from promenade deck to keels 134ft;
Machinery approximates 200,000 h.p.

Passenger accommodation, 776 cabin, 784 tourist, 579 third-class; Officers and crew, 579.

The Queen Mary, then known as "No. 534," was laid down on Dec. 1, 1930, but, owing to economic difficulties, all work on her was suspended a year later, and not resumed till April 3, 1934. She was launched on Sept. 26, 1934, by the Queen.

She sailed on her maiden voyage from Southampton to New York on May 27 last. On her latest west-bound trip she crossed at an average speed of 29.61 knots, and only missed winning the blue ribbon by the 300th part of a knot.

SECRET TALK ON DEFENCE

DEPUTATION TO THE PREMIER

There was a two hours' discussion on defence between Mr. Baldwin and a deputation from the two Houses of Parliament recently. The proceedings were strictly confidential.

The time proved inadequate for the ventilation of all the problems under consideration, and a further meeting will take place to-day.

Neither the Government nor the members of the deputation intend to publish any account of the proceedings. I learn, however, that the peers and M.P.s concerned placed before the Prime Minister a mass of information which they had collected regarding the position in various European countries, writes a correspondent.

Particular attention was devoted to the acceleration of rearmament in Germany and to the necessity of speeding up the British Government's new defence programme.

The interviews with the Government were pressed for by Mr. Churchill in the recent House of Commons debate on defence, when it was urged that facts could be communicated to Ministers which it would not be prudent to disclose openly in the House.

SERVICES NOT REPRESENTED

Mr. Chamberlain, who then replied to Mr. Churchill, made it clear that the Government would not give the deputation any information that it was not prepared to place before Parliament. He was not able to be present owing to slight indisposition.

Mr. Baldwin was accompanied by Viscount Halifax, Lord Privy Seal, and Sir Thomas Inskip, Minister for the Co-ordination of Defence. Contrary to expectations, the Ministerial heads of the Navy, the Army, and the Royal Air Force did not attend.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, I understand, made the opening statement on behalf of the deputation, which was composed as follows:

The Marquess of Salisbury, Viscount Fitz-Alan, Viscount Trenchard, Lord Milne, Lord Lloyd, Mr. Churchill, Sir Robert Horne, Mr. Amery, Earl Winterton, Sir H. Page Croft, Sir Hugh O'Neill, Capt. F. E. Guest, Sir John Gilmour, Viscount Wolmer, Sir Roger Keyes, Lt.-Col. Moore-Brabazon, and Sir Edward Grigg.

CHINESE STUDENTS IN BRITAIN

Reports Of Indemnity Group Most Satisfactory

INTERVIEW WITH MR. SILCOCK

London, July 20.

"Most satisfactory are the reports of the indemnity students at British Universities," said Mr. K. T. Silcock, Director of China Institute, in an interview. "The many letters I had had from university authorities speak highly of the students' work and ability."

Among results of the annual degree examinations, the following Chinese students of the 1935 group have earned distinction as follows: Tai Ke-kwang M. Sc. London Univ.; Wu Tai-jen M. Sc. (Mathematics) London Univ.; Wang Bao-un Ph. D. (Dyeing) London Univ.; Li Chi B. Litt. Oxford Univ.; Shih Sheng-han Ph. D. (Plant Physiology) London Univ.; Ku Hsueh-chin Ph.D.C.S. Edinburgh Univ.; Chien Ching-lien Ph. D. London Univ.

At several universities results have not yet been announced. More distinctions may well be expected.

Of those named above Dr. Shih has been taking a final course in Germany "and has proved an admirable student," said Mr. Silcock. "Dr. Wang has also been doing some final work in Munich. He will shortly be going home to take up an appointment in a Chinese University."

JUNIOR STUDENTS

Among junior students, Mr. Silcock drew attention to Chou Tsung-lien, Ph. D., and Chang You-ling M. Sc. of Manchester, both of the 1934 group, hydraulic engineers. They have constructed a machine by which they hope to find a way of conquering the floods of "China's Sorrow," the Yellow River.

"The Manchester authorities have a very high opinion of these men," said Mr. Silcock, "and say they are doing extraordinarily good work."

Of the same 1934 group Shaw Ziang-war and Chiu Yu-chih, studying metallurgy at London University, have just passed the B.Sc. honours examination and that for Associateship of the Royal School of Mines, both in the 1st class; the examiners were much impressed by their work.

At Cambridge, Li Kwong-ting (1934 group) is reported to be doing sterling work in the Cavendish laboratories, which have no superior anywhere. In the same laboratories Chang Wen-yu (1935 group) has just completed a difficult piece of research work in physics, with such success that the Cavendish authorities are publishing his paper.

MORE DISTINCTION

Another son of China earning distinction is Yang Jen-pien, at Oxford, studying Western History. He has just finished the draft of his thesis which is described as "likely to be a really important contribution to the subject."

"That from an Oxford professor is indeed high praise," said Mr. Silcock.

Another student, C. Y. Wu, (1934 group) of London School of Economics, is already writing a book on economics which promises very well.

At Durham two of the 1935 group, Young Jen-chien and Chang Wen-chih, are studying naval architecture.

"They have just taken a special examination to test their progress," said Mr. Silcock, "when one of the Chief Constructors to the Admiralty was the examiner. I hear that he was much pleased with the conscientious work of these two men."

"Last, I may mention Chu Yen-feng, of the 1935 group, studying history at Oxford. I hear that his work promises to be of real historical value. I wish some one would say the same of any work of mine," Mr. Silcock concluded, laughing.

All arrangements for the twenty indemnity students now on their way to England are practically completed though in the case of men students going to Oxford or Cambridge, the colleges they go to are not yet decided. The list is as follows:—

Miss Lei Po-kan: English Philology, Oxford; Home Students; Wang Shen-tau: Oxford; Low Pon-yen: Administrative Law, London School of Economics; Li Hsueh-ping: Civil Law, London School of

CORONATION CEREMONY

MAY BE BOTH TELEVIEWED AND BROADCAST

London, July 27.

I understand that there is a strong probability that the Coronation ceremony in Westminster Abbey will be not only broadcast but, televised, writes a correspondent.

The King's permission will be sought as soon as the arrangements for the ceremony itself are complete.

The technical difficulties are not so great as might be supposed, as the apparatus for televising actualities requires no arcs or extra lighting, even in so dimly lit a building as the Abbey.

FOR THE FEW ONLY

The process which would be used would give a black-and-white picture. It would not reproduce, as has been suggested, a second-hand recording, but an image of events at the instant at which they were taking place.

The television broadcast, of course, would be witnessed by only a few people—and those only within a few miles' radius of Alexandra Palace—since television sets, which are not even on the market as yet, are likely to be expensive luxuries for some time to come.

Meanwhile, preparations are well in hand for an aural Coronation broadcast. The B.B.C. are already arranging for microphones to be placed at various points on the probable route of the procession, as was done for the funeral of King George. Accommodation will be provided not only for their own technicians and commentators, but for those of all foreign broadcasting organisations.

Three new transmitters have been ordered for Daventry, in order to ensure perfect reception all over the world, and other new plant is already being installed. Additional aerials are being erected, and these will be used for ordinary Empire broadcasts as soon as they are ready.

TELEVISION STAFF

Television, which has for several years been but a pious promise, is at last ready on the way. Mr. Gerald Cock, Director of Television, and Mr. D. H. Munro, Productions Manager, are to take up their new quarters at Alexandra Palace during the first week in August, and the remainder of the production staff will move in a week later.

One of the first problems to be tackled will be that of studio lighting, and consideration of this will be the first task of Mr. Stephen Thomas, one of the television producers, in co-operation with the two newly appointed stage electricians.

ALFONSO'S SON ROBBED—AND FINED

New York, July 24.

Count Covadonga, ex-King Alfonso's son, has been fined $8,000 here for a small traffic law infringement. The summons was served under the name of "Alfonso de Bourbon."

When the case was heard, Count Covadonga did not appear. An employee of the motor firm where he works as a salesman appeared and explained that the count was ill.

He also stated that the count's wallet containing $12, the summons and his driving licence had been stolen.—Reuter.

Count Covadonga renounced his rights to the Spanish throne in 1933, in order to marry the daughter of a wealthy Cuban sugar planter. He is now seeking annulment of his marriage.

BOY OF FOUR WALKS 34 MILES

In Search Of Adventure

Paris, July 23.

A boy of four, in search of adventure, walked thirty-four miles along the sands before he was discovered, none the worse for it.

Little Jacques Lorrain was playing on the sands at Soulac with some other children, in charge of his grandmother, when she left him for ten minutes to buy the children some biscuits. On her return Jacques had gone.

There was a frantic search for him around the family tent and among the crowds, without result. Finally the police were informed. They searched the beach and the forest without result.

Then, when morning came, traces of little Jacques' bare feet were seen along the sands. They were followed right away to Montallvet, twelve miles away.

Still they continued, other brigades of police were advised, and finally Jacques was found. He had covered thirty-four miles in forty hours, wearing only a bathing suit and coat.

EMPIRE AIR LETTERS AT 14d.

London, July 26.

Letters will be carried by air mail to Australia next year for 14d. per half ounce. The present rate is 1s. 3d. per half ounce.

The Post Office has completed plans for its Empire air mail link up, and the "Sunday Pictorial" is able to reveal that twenty-five tons of air mail will be carried next year at 14d. per half ounce.

This applies to Egypt, Palestine and the Iraq (previously 3d. per half ounce); India, the Straits, Malaya and Hong Kong, Tanganyika, Rhodesia and Nigeria (previously 3d.).

No air mail service runs to Canada, but developments may be expected.

"It will be as cheap to send a letter 11,000 miles to Melbourne as it is to send one to Mitcham," said a Post Office official.

EXPANSION OF
THE
AIR FORCE

Sir T. Inskip's
Assurances

MAKING UP LOST
GROUND

Much Work To Be Done

London, July 23.

In the division in the House of Commons, following the debate on Defence last Monday, the Government had a majority of 350 to 155.
It is an assurance that any weakness, any failure to fulfil the programme in the time allotted for it, would be condemned by the same great weight of opinion.

Sir T. Inskip's statement was the more satisfactory for the evidence it afforded of the mastery of the subject he has won in the short period since he was appointed Minister for Co-ordination of Defence.

His assurance that during the last three months deliveries of aeroplanes have been 3½ times, and those of engines twice the numbers of the same period in 1935, and that forty new aeroplanes are being acquired and equipped, at any rate removes some of the fears entertained in some quarters. But the country would like to know how production and preparation in certain other countries compares with it.

His reference to production of new types of aeroplanes for the Air Force will be interpreted, it is to be hoped rightly interpreted, as an assurance that fighters of later design than the "Gladiator," and medium bombers designed during the past twelve months, are now actually in production.

Of the number of new squadrons
to be formed under the Two Years Expansion Plan nineteen have now been formed. No doubt the pace will increase, and it may be assumed that several squadrons are now nearing completion; but it is to be borne in mind that between the present date and March 31 next year fifty-two more squadrons must be formed, an average of nearly two a week.

The training of personnel for the additional squadrons is as important as the provision of aircraft, and at the present moment the demands imposed upon the instructional staff are so heavy that a certain number who it was hoped would be available for return to squadron duty cannot yet be spared.

On the other hand, it is probable that the return of certain units from the Mediterranean may release a few officers for the teaching of new units as formed.
Such difficulties as these, however, should become less acute with the passage of every month.

In view of reports concerning the progress of air armament expansion in Germany, it is natural there should be considerable anxiety lest the present programme for the Royal Air Force is really adequate.
There is no doubt that training casualties in Germany are very numerous, although complete particulars are not allowed to leak out.

But if there is a reasonable basis of fact for reports, and assuming something like an even numerical comparison with the casualty percentages in other countries, there are four times more military air pilots under training in Germany than in England.

AIR EXERCISES

Operations Day And Night

This year's Air Exercises, to be held to-morrow and on Wednesday till Friday this week, will be on a small scale than usual owing to the reorganising of the R.A.F. now in progress, and to the absence overseas of a number of squadrons.
Less than half as many aircraft will be engaged than in last year's exercises, but anti-aircraft units will be in greater strength.

The exercises will not take the usual form of an imaginary war between two states, and there will be no bombing "targets" in London. They will be in two phases:
(1) from 10 a.m. to 3.30 p.m. on Monday, and (2) from 3 p.m. on Wednesday till 3 p.m. on Friday.
During the second phase operations will be continuous day and night.
The raiding forces will consist of aircraft drawn from light bomber squadrons of No. 1 Group, under the command of Air-Commodore O. T. Boyd, and of heavy bombers of No. 3 Group, under the com-

OPERATIONS
FILMEDNOVEL TRAINING FOR STUDENTS

Growing use is being made of the cinematograph to promote knowledge in the medical profession.

"I was told by a well-known surgeon during a scientific meeting of the British Medical Association that it is now common for a surgeon who has to perform a difficult or unusual operation to have a motion picture of it taken" writes a special correspondent in the
"Daily Telegraph."

"There are some surgeons," he added, "who are known as an unconventional technique, and the practical illustration of such operations are very helpful in training medical students."

"In the same way, a specialist treating a rare form of disease will frequently call in the services of the cine-camera, so that the knowledge of the peculiarities of the disease may become generally known to the profession. Features of certain tropical diseases seldom met with in the ordinary routine in this country have been cinephotographed in this way."

As a result of this modern development there is being accumulated a permanent record of unusual diseases and surgical operations which is not only most useful to the medical student but will be of service to future generations of doctors.

Moving picture demonstrations have been one of the most interesting features of the scientific meetings of the British Medical Assocation, which concluded at Oxford on July 25.

MISS EDITH CLARKE,
O.B.E.Taught The Army And Navy
To Cook

London, July 24.

The college where for 60 years men of the Navy and Army have learned to cook mourns the death of its principal, Miss Edith Clarke, O.B.E.

The National Training College of Domestic Subjects (the first school of cookery in this country) began its work in 1874 as the National Training School of Cookery in Exhibition Road, South Kensington, and its first principal was Miss Edith Clarke, mother of Miss Clarke.
Under the guidance of mother and daughter the work of the College grew in scope and importance.

Paymasters and ratings of the Navy are sent there on catering and cookery courses, and are taught to make the best of limited rations. The first soldier cooks in the Army took a course at the original school in the 'eighties, and during the Great War men of the R.A.M.C. were sent in detachments from Aldershot to learn to make the best of a soldier's war-time provisions.

Miss Clarke died at her home in Berkshire.

mand of Air-Vice-Marshal P. H. L.
Playfair. The number of aircraft will be 100.
Aircraft defending will be seventy fighters drawn from eight fighter squadrons (not in full strength)
under the command of Air-Marshal P. B. Joubert de la Ferté. Defending forces on the ground will be the 1st Anti-Aircraft Division, Territorial Army.

THE AREA

The area of operations will be a section of East and South-East England enclosed by a line drawn from Orfordness to Newgate Street (Herts), skirting the eastern suburbs to near Croydon, and thence to Brighton. Day objectives will be Biggin Hill, Hornchurch, and North
Weald aerodromes, and by night
Hornchurch and North Weald aerodromes.

Now 1 an 18 Groups of the Observance Corps will be employed to provide intelligence of hostile aircraft movements during part of the operations.

The exercises will not in any sense be a trial of strength between attacking and defending forces, and there will be no question of "defeat" or "victory." The object of the exercises is that of enabling the operational efficiency of the units engaged to be tested, and to put into operation the system by which fighter units are sent up to intercept raiders. It will be observed that none of the very latest types of R.A.F. aeroplanes will be engaged.

FORMIDABLE
JAPANESE NAVY
CONTEMPLATEDSTRONGEST SEA
FORCE IN WORLD
PLANNED, NEWS-PAPER DISCLOSES

Tokyo, Aug. (By Mail)

The newspaper Jiji states that the Imperial Japanese navy has decided upon an independent, secret construction programme which would give Japan the world's strongest sea force.

Special attention will be given to destroyers and submarines, the paper asserted.

The navy intends to keep its construction plans from other powers,
according to the Jiji's prediction.

"The treaty-less conditions to prevail after the end of this year will allow the Japanese navy to build up an ideal naval armament which is suited to the national traits of the Japanese people, national conditions and geographical requirements of this country," the newspaper announced.

PLAN INDEPENDENT

"In promoting the new construction and airforce plans Japan will not imitate Great Britain or the United States in their building plans but will adopt an independent construction policy. For instance... Japan will build the world's most superior capital ships in quality but will not compete quantitatively with the other powers."

"As for submarines and destroyers, which are more economical and which are suited for surprise attacks and more fitting for Japan geographically, and in which the Japanese are skilled, Japan intends to maintain the world's greatest submarine and destroyer fleet."

PROGRAMME SECRET

"Heretofore the Japanese navy could not maintain naval secrets fully because of the treaty obligations concerning building plans,
present strength and special arms,
etc., but since all such obligations will be removed, the force of arguments will become all the greater to the extent naval secrets are kept."

"Altering the present policy,
therefore, the navy will endeavour to keep national secrets of the navy in greater measure than before."

GALLIPOLI WAR
GRAVES "SAFE"Turkey's Declaration
To Dispel British Uneasiness

The new Straits Convention will in no way affect the upkeep and supervision of war graves in Gallipoli.

With the text of the Convention
signed at Montreux on July 20, which was published as a White Paper on July 27, appears correspondence between Dr. T. R. Aras, the Turkish Foreign Minister, and Lord Stanley, the chief British delegate, on the subject of the cemeteries.

Dr. Aras wrote on July 18—"You mentioned to me the other day that public opinion in your country felt some uneasiness regarding the effect of the conclusion of the Straits Convention upon the position of the military cemeteries on the Gallipoli Peninsula."

Dr. Aras then repeats a "spontaneous declaration" which he made during a private session.

BRITAIN'S BULL-RING

Prosperous Town Of La Linea

La Linea, where fierce fighting has taken place in the Spanish counter-revolution, is a small and prosperous town one and a half miles from Gibraltar, just beyond "No Man's Land," as the neutral zone is known locally.
Its full name is La Linea de la Concepcion. It is prosperous for two reasons.
In spite of the vigilance of the Spanish Customs officials there is a lucrative day-to-day smuggling trade carried out by Spaniards, who come into the free port of Gibraltar nominally to work, but more frequently to bring back cheap cigars and other goods.
The second reason for the town's prosperity is its bull-rings. Its chief patrons are the British troops from Gibraltar. It is in the arena of La Linea that many a British soldier has seen his first, and perhaps his only, bull-fight.

A QUEEN'S CHAIR

Close to La Linea is the charming old Spanish town of San Roque. It was founded by Spanish refugees from Gibraltar after that mountain fortress was captured by Admiral Rooke in 1704.
The town stands on a hill. It was from a tower on this hill that Queen Maria of Spain watched the siege.

She had taken a solemn vow never to move from this spot until the Spanish flag flew over Gibraltar again, and the chair on which she sat during her long vigil is still shown.

She was saved from an ignominious situation by the courtesy of the British Governor of Gibraltar, who flew the Spanish flag for a few hours to enable the Queen to make an honourable retreat.

Bone Grafted On Spine

WONDERFUL OPERATION

A remarkable grafting operation was described at the Paddington Inquest on July 24 on Harold Ernest Owen, 19, a clerk, of Loftus-road, Shepherd's Bush.

Owen was suffering from tuberculosis of the spine. He was admitted to St. Charles' Hospital, Kensington, and operated upon, but died later.

Dr. Mervyn Robinson, resident medical officer at the hospital, said that while an orthopaedic surgeon was preparing a portion of the boy's spine, he took thin strips of bone from the patient's shin. These were then grafted on to the vertebrae. The operation lasted an hour and a half.

The Coroner, Mr. Ingleby Oddie, said that it was a wonderful operation.

William Ernest Owen said that his son was a very keen athlete, played schoolboy county and international football, and was champion runner of the school. He had won 34 medals.

Mr. Owen was satisfied that everything possible was done for his son in the hospital.
A verdict of death by misadventure was returned.

SUNNY WEATHER IN ENGLAND

London, Aug. 17.
After six weeks of unseasonable weather London and South of England is enjoying a spell of sunny hot weather which seems likely to continue at least for several days. Swimming pools and open air cafes, which have been poorly patronised so far this summer were crowded to-day and nearly 16,000 people watched England v. All-India test match at the Oval, a much improved attendance compared with Saturday.

JEAN CHATBURN AND KURT NEUMANN SET FOR NEW M-G-M MUSICAL SHORT

Jean Chatburn, young actress who scored in THE GREAT ZIEGFELD and who recently was adjudged "the ideal beautiful girl," takes another step up the cinematic ladder toward stardom. She has just been selected to portray the leading feminine role in Metro-

LITTLE COLONEL

That bundle of screen magic, five-year-old Shirley Temple, will once be thrilling and delighting her army of local movie fans in a new picture. Reports from other cities indicate that in "The Little Colonel," Fox Film has given her an ideal vehicle for her acting, singing, and dancing talents. It will come to the Star Theatre to-day.

She co-stars with Lionel Barrymore in this popular story of Southern prejudices, adapted from Annie Fellows Johnston's series of "Little Colonel" stories, which were the favourite reading of millions a generation back, and whose appeal is perennial.

"The Little Colonel" is the story of a Kentucky belle who marries a Yankee, against her father's wishes, and is promptly disowned by the proud old aristocrat, who is still living in the days of the Civil War. Barrymore is the obdurate Southern aristocrat. Shirley plays the cameo colonel whose dancing feet, smiling eyes, and honey-colored curls make a withering attack on the heart of the stern rebel.

In keeping with the importance of this picture, Technicolor graces part of this De Silva production. The "real" Shirley as she really looks is seen for the first time by her following of movie fans.

Critics in other cities where "The Little Colonel" is playing, hail it as Shirley's most superb vehicle. There is blend drama and comedy, in the plantation, frontier, and army scenes. Attention is being called everywhere to Shirley's dancing with Bill Robinson in his original stair dance, elaborately staged in one sequence of the picture.

Supporting the co-stars are such personalities as Evelyn Venable, John Lodge, Sidney Blackmer, Allen Chase, William Burress, and others.

The direction is by David Butler, and the screen adaptation by William Conselman.

Goldwyn-Mayer's "mammoth, miniature musical," VIOLETS IN SPRING.

Kurt Neumann, whose latest directorial effort was LET'S SING AGAIN, has been engaged by Jack Chertok, producer, to direct the musical short subject.

The new picture, a two-reeler, written by Val Burton, Will Jason and Stanley Rauh, with original music and lyrics by Val Burton and Will Jason, concerns the effect of psychology on love-making from a humorous standpoint.

A novel note will be touched in that every noise in the factory where the locale of the story is laid will be a musical note.

SPLENDID TECHNICOLOR PRODUCTION

"TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE"

Filmed outdoors, the Paramount all-technicolor picture, "Trail of the Lonesome Pine," starring Sylvia Sidney, Fred MacMurray and Henry Fonda, was previewed by the local Press at the Queen's Theatre yesterday morning.

The film will be screened simultaneously at the Queen's and Alhambra commencing on Friday.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine," based on John Fox, Jr.'s story of the Cumberland Mountains, is a history-making production in that it is the first all-colour film to be made. It is a Walter Wanger production and was directed by Henry Hathaway.

The film tells the story of mountaineers and their feuds for years on end—and for causes long since forgotten. Miss Sidney and Fonda are members of the Tolliver clan, united in their love for each other and their undying hatred for the rival Fain clan.

Their first contact with civilization and its ways occurs when MacMurray, a young engineer, arrives to construct a railroad line through their remote hills. At first antagonistic and suspicious, they become his friends when he saves Fonda, and, as time goes on, falls in love with Miss Sidney. But Fonda becomes enraged with the engineer and intends to kill him for he knows only the one code. But simultaneously the Fain clan set out to "get" Fonda.

The events that follow when these opposing factions meet bring the film to a stirring climax. The leading players are all excellent in their respective roles and splendid support comes from Beulah Bondi, Fuzzy Knight, Robert Barrat, Nigel Bruce, Fred Stone and Powell Clayton among others.

"The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" should not be missed—"Cam".

"BULLDOG JACK"

Exciting Picture At The King's

Jack Hulbert, the English star, once again delights with his comical antics in "Bulldog Jack" which had its initial showings at the King's Theatre yesterday.

In this film, the comedian has the role of an amateur detective; and there are many laugh-provoking situations when Jack Hulbert sets out to capture the villains.

Excitement and mystery are also interwoven with this comical

WHERE STARS ARE FOUND

"THE GOOD EARTH"

Chinese Town Built For Film

MOST REMARKABLE PRODUCTION

There is a crop of Oriental headaches in Hollywood at this moment. Most of them are being suffered by Mr. Irving Thalberg and those who labour with him.

The headache centre is actually forty miles from Los Angeles, where Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer are engaged in one of Hollywood's most remarkable production feats, the filming of Pearl S. Buck's all-Chinese epic, "The Good Earth."

Preparations started nearly a year ago. Miles of water pipes were laid under a 500-acre plot of barren land. Five hundred Chinese farmers, recruited on the Coast, were sent to grow rice, raise chickens and generally engage themselves in Chinese agricultural life.

A Chinese town was built by a Chinese architect, with Chinese restaurants, recreation centre and town hall, to house a population of over 1,000.

FIRST BABY

The problem at the moment is what will happen to it when the last shot has been taken.

Fifteen families have already decided to take up permanent residence. The first child of the settlement, Louise Loy, has been born and duly christened after Luise Rainer, the picture's heroine. They have elected a Chinese mayor, 87-year-old Moy Ming, builder and actor, the first Chinese to appear before a film camera, in D. W. Griffith's "Broken Blossoms."

There is strong feeling in Los Angeles that to destroy such a monument of movie creation would be a crime, but the snag remains that it will need careful financing and the work of at least 100 Chinese farmers for a year to give it permanence.

Two solutions have been offered. One is to hand it over to a charitable institution as a home for old and indigent Chinese. The other is an offer from a group of Chinese to take it over with a view to hiring it out for all future Chinese exteriors.

At the moment it seems as though the creative ingenuity of M-G-M has over-reached itself by creating a little piece of California which will be for ever Northern China.

LOTUS PUZZLE

The film itself has caused headaches in plenty. Six hundred thousand pounds have been spent on it to date. Parts of it have been made three times over. Paul Muni and Luise Rainer, the principals, are threatening to quit from sheer exhaustion.

The main troubles have centred round the part of Lotus. First an Oriental lovely, by the name of Lotus Lei, was cast in it. She made Franklin Rainer and Herr Muni look rather funny, Chinese.

Then Sidney Fox was put in, but unaccountably withdrawn. Jean Parker was tested but succumbed to make-up poisoning. Miss Lei restarted. Then she was taken out again and Miss Tilly Losch was signed.

To-day's Hollywood report has it that Miss Losch still retains the part: that Mr. Thalberg is anxiously thumbing the calendar: that Mr. Muni still has the Oriental hump and that Miss Rainer is saying that she "moos" soon go home to Europe and hates Hollywood because someone she loves very dearly isn't near...

farce, which has a powerful climax.

"Bulldog Jack" introduces Claude Hulbert who is seen for the first time on the screen with his famous brother, Jack Fay Wray in the feminine lead.

The film is a Gaumont-British picture. Walter Forde directed. The original story is by J. O. O. Orton, Sydney Gilliat and Gerard Fairlie in collaboration with "Sapper," the famous author of the Bulldog Drummond stories.

The picture also boasts of a strong cast which includes Ralph Richardson, Bibb McLaughlin, At-holl Fleming and Paul Graetz—M.

Hollywood's talent scouts do not confine their searches to the legitimate stage. Potential stars are discovered in cages, on the concert stage, behind newspaper desks and even in swimming pools, a survey of the film studios shows.

Nelson Eddy was singing at a San Diego concert when he offered to substitute for another singer, stricken ill, at a Los Angeles concert. Louis B. Mayer was in the audience and signed Eddy immediately.

Robert Taylor was attending Pomona College, studying for a medical career, when Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer talent scouts saw him in the college production of "Journey's End." That stepped him aside from his books on medicine, and into the films.

Myrna Loy was "discovered" by the late Rudolph Valentino, while she was appearing in a prologue in a Hollywood theatre.

Maureen O'Sullivan was dining in a Dublin cafe when Director Frank Borzage introduced himself, and urged her to take a film role in "Song of My Heart."

Harry Stockwell was music editor on the Kansas City Post when he interviewed Dr. Howard Hanson, director of the East in School of music. During the interview Hanson asked the newspaper man to sing for him. Stockwell did and was given the job of publicity director for the school and studied music also.

JEAN PARKER

Jean Parker posed for a poster to be used on an Olympic Games float. The picture appeared in a Hollywood newspaper and, seeing it, executives gave her a contract.

Gary Cooper was a newspaper circulation man, making daily rounds to front doors asking for subscriptions. Adolphe Menjou was discovered by Charlie Chaplin while dining in a Hollywood cafe. Chaplin liked the way he handled his knife and fork.

Ann Loring, New York girl, won her film contract through a talent contest conducted by M-G-M's travelling studio.

June Knight was singing in a Hollywood club and paid a visit to the studios. She has been in pictures ever since.

Betty Furness, during school vacation, was a model for commercial advertisers when film executives saw her picture and sent for her.

Stanley Morner was singing in a Chicago night club. Mary Garden saw and heard him sing and introduced him to talent scouts in New York.

Mamo Clark was studying law at the University of Southern California when Director Frank Lloyd was searching for a girl to play opposite Clark Gable in "Mystery on the Bounty." She gave up her law career and signed a contract, which was later renewed.

Frances Langford was a guest at a party given in Cole Porter's honour when she volunteered to sing. Studio executives were present and were impressed by her voice.

Lorraine Bridges had been employed by M-G-M to sing at a banquet given at the studio for the majors of Chicago and Boston. Mr. Mayer heard her rehearsals before the banquet took place, and gave her a contract forthwith.

And Johnny Weissmuller was found in a swimming pool.

ANTI-JAPANESE FEELING

Melon Skin Thrown At Party

CHINESE DRIVER STRUCK

What was apparently another case arising out of anti-Japanese feeling, was heard at the Central Court yesterday, when Chui Sui, 20, appeared before Mr. S. F. Balfour charged with disorderly conduct by throwing a piece of melon skin at a party of Japanese in a motor car. The complainant was Wong Hing, the car driver, who was the recipient of the melon skin, when it missed its intended objective and struck him.

Detective Sergeant F. W. Fowle stated that on August 14 about 7 p.m. detective 143 was on duty in Rumsay street, and saw a party of six Japanese, including three women, approaching along the road followed by a large crowd of Chinese shouting "Ta" (strike). The complainant came along in his car and four of the Japanese got in.

The defendant picked up a piece of melon skin and threw it at the passengers of the car but missed and struck the driver. The detective arrested the defendant but on account of the hostile crowd, and there being no other assistance on hand, allowed him to go free again. He followed the defendant to the Harbour Office and re-arrested him when the crowd had dispersed.

The Police take a serious view of the case as it might have led to more grave consequences. There were about 80 people in the crowd. Defendant was fined $50 or two months' hard labour in default.

POSSESSION OF ARMS

Chinese Convicted At Sessions

Wong Yee appeared before the Chief Justice, Sir Athol MacGregor, at the Criminal Session, with possession of arms and ammunition, and was found guilty. He was sentenced to 15 months' imprisonment with hard labour.

The jury empanelled consisted of W. C. Kallay (foreman), A. H. Basto, Tang Wai Ki, Chung Kwang Tung, Chan Hung Ching, Yau Kam Fo, and D. Gopaladas. The Assistant Attorney General, E. H. Williams, prosecuted for the Crown.

On June 19 a Chinese constable on information, went to the village of Tai Long, in the new territories, and in an unnumbered house, found a man in a cubicle, lying on a bed. He arrested defendant, and found a revolver under the matting which the defendant claimed as his own. Only one shell had been fired, and it was proved that it had been fired recently.

He was charged on June 21 with possession of arms and ammunition, and at the Magistrate's court the defendant said that the accusation was false.

Man Kwan, Chinese detective, C551, reiterated Mr. Williams' remarks, and concluded by saying that the defendant admitted ownership of the revolver at the time.

Police Armourer Scott, of the Hong Kong Police, said that he examined the revolver, and found that it had been fired shortly before he examined it.

Chan Wai Wing, interpreter for the Police, stated that the defendant admitted the ownership of the weapon by saying in Hakka, "The revolver is mine."

After a short deliberation the jury returned a verdict of guilty, and the Chief Justice sentenced the defendant to 15 months' imprisonment with hard labour.

JEWELLERY STOLEN

Accountant Accused Of Receiving

AMAH PLEADS GUILTY TO CRIME

Ma Yee, an amah aged 36, of No. 23, Village Road, was charged before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Court yesterday with the theft of a cash box on August 7, containing six pieces of jewellery and $325, the property of Cheung Lung, 33, a married woman.

Tsol Choi Hung, 24, accountant of a rice shop, was charged with receiving the property knowing the same to have been stolen.

The second defendant was represented by Mr. D. B. Evans who pleaded "Not Guilty." The case against the second defendant was therefore remanded for hearing on Friday at 2.30 p.m.

Detective Sergeant C. Dowman asked his Worship to suspend sentence on the first defendant, who had pleaded guilty, as the first defendant would be used as a witness against the second.

Stating the facts of the case he said that on August 7 between noon and 4 p.m. the cashbox suddenly disappeared from the bedroom. An amah named Wong Sze, was first suspected and the matter was reported to the Police. Enquiries revealed that Wong Sze was innocent and Ma Yee came under suspicion.

Both amahs were kept in the house until August 16 when the first defendant admitted stealing the box and giving it to the second defendant. The first defendant, Wong Sze and the complainant went to the shop where the second defendant worked and it was there that the second defendant is alleged to have produced the box from a bag of rice. When the box was opened it only contained $11.50 and a ring valued at $5.

ALLEGED GANG OF THIEVES

BICYCLES STOLEN IN KOWLOON

Alleged by the police to be members of a gang, three Hakkas appeared on remand before Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistrate's court yesterday, charged in connection with bicycle thefts.

Wong Kwong, 25, bicycle shop master, of No. 86 Po Kong Road, was charged with receiving five stolen bicycles, the property of Leung Tim, Chun Fo, Lo Lok, Chong Man and Charles Fuxman, respectively between April 7 and July 1.

Tiu Choi, 19, milk coolie, was charged with stealing a bicycle belonging to Pang Pak on August 7, and another milk coolie, Lau Ping, 28, was accused of the theft of a bicycle the property of Li Ming.

Detective Inspector A. B. Eston, of the Yaumatei C.I.D., appeared for the prosecution whilst Mr. F. L. Zimmerman defended Wong Kwong.

At the outset the prosecuting officer said that they would proceed with the case against the bicycle shop master, separately from the other two accused.

Further charges of receiving two other machines were instigated against Wong, whilst a slight amendment in dates was also made in respect of one of the charges.

Inspector Eston said that evidence would be called to show that accused was aware that the machines were stolen property.

Following evidence by several of the police witnesses which disclosed that the machines were stolen in the streets whilst the owners were variously occupied elsewhere, the hearing was adjourned.

GIRL TAKEN TO MACAO

Bricklayer Sent To Prison

LIVED AS MAN AND WIFE

How a girl, aged 16, was taken to Macao and subsequently to the country where she lived together with a bricklayer as man and wife, and was later despoiled of her way back to the Colony on her own, was related to Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistrate's court yesterday by Inspector E. J. Ellis, of the Secretariat for Chinese Affairs.

The accused, Cheung Wah, described as a bricklayer, of the Ching Lee Kee builders, Kowloon City, was charged with unlawfully taking an unmarried girl under the age of 21 years, to wit, Siu Kin, aged 16 years, "out of the possession and against the will of her mother, Chan Fung, on August 27, last year, in Mong Kok district."

Inspector Ellis stated that the girl alleged desertion by Cheung, whilst the latter in a statement to the police claimed that he had brought the girl to Hong Kong when he met her mother, who took her daughter from him promising to return her in two or three days.

Sentence of nine months' imprisonment was imposed. The girl was first reported as missing on August 27, last year, stated the prosecuting officer. Defendant who resided with the family at Reclamation Street, disappeared from the premises at about the same period. The girl was not seen by her mother again until about two weeks ago when she was visiting a friend at 115, Des Voeux Road, Central. Accused together with her daughter walked into the flat.

MACAO VISIT PLANNED

According to the girl she alleged that on August 27 she had made up her mind to visit a dentist. Cheung informed her of a claimant in Queen's Road West who would charge less for dental work. She agreed to his proposition but when they visited the place, the dentist was out. The accused then proposed that she accompany him to Macao, where she would be able to obtain employment. This the girl agreed to.

The remained in the Portuguese Colony for a few days and then to the country, where they lived together as man and wife. They re-visited Macao where they remained until about two weeks ago.

The girl alleged desertion on the part of Cheung, whilst he claimed that he accompanied the girl to Hong Kong and met her mother in Des Voeux Road, while visiting a friend. The mother took the girl and promised to return her in two or three days time.

Apparently, said Insp. Ellis, the mother did not report the affair to the authorities until August 15 when both parties went to the Mong Kok Police Station.

A serious view was taken by the prosecution, said Inspector Ellis. In sentencing accused as stated above, the Magistrate remarked: "I suppose this traffic later on becomes part and parcel of the so-called 'white slave' traffic."

BICYCLE THEFTS

The cool nerve of an unemployed man who attempted to steal a bicycle whilst the owner was in a shop, was related to Mr. Himsforth yesterday when Hung Ming, 31, appeared on a theft charge. Crown Sgt. A. E. Banks said that the machine was left outside No. 119 Wuhu Street, Hung Hom district, and accused was seen by Li Fuk, 28, carpenter, the owner walking away with it. Hung who admitted a previous conviction against the opium regulations, was fined $10 or, in default, one month's imprisonment.

Yuen Kau, 18, an odd job coo, was charged before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court yesterday with (a) the larceny of a bicycle, the property of Tseng Wa Kwong, a fitter at No. 10, Centre Street, and (b) receiving the same.

Detective Sergeant Cashman stated that the complainant returned to No. 10, Centre Street and found the cycle missing. On information received the defendant was found with the cycle at No. 249, Voerux Road. Defendant was sentenced to one month.

MURDER CASE

The hearing of the trial of Bhag Singh, P.C.B. 90, who is charged with the murder of Sahib Singh, P.C.B. 695, was fixed by Mr. Schofield at the Central Court yesterday for August 27. Five days have been reserved for the hearing. Mr. W. A. Brown appeared for the defendant. Mr. E. H. Williams, assistant attorney general, is appearing for the Crown.

HEROIN CARRIER

Charged with the possession of a quantity of heroin pills, Chan Mui, 23, unemployed was fined $50 or, in default, six weeks' jail, by Mr. Macfadyen at the Kowloon Magistrate's court yesterday. Revenue Officer P. J. O'Neill stated that accused was arrested in Saigon Street near Reclamation Street, on August 10.

A VAGRANT

William John Garton, 45, unemployed, a British subject born in London, was charged before Mr. S. F. Balfour at the Central Court yesterday with being in the Colony apparently a vagrant on August 17.

Sergeant Loughlin stated that the defendant was passing through the Colony on the Fushing Maru, bound for London. He missed the boat.

Defendant was committed to the House of Detention.

Defendant replied that it had a couple of bottles of wine inside. The officer asked for the keys. Defendant fumbled for a time and then produced the keys. The bag was opened and found to contain the said opium.

A letter was produced, addressed to a Chinese in the Colony. This man had not been traced. Defendant had admitted receiving $2 for the transport of the opium to Hong Kong.

MORE HEROIN

A 20-year-old married woman, Ho Shun, was discharged before Mr. Macfadyen when she appeared on remand charged with possession of 6,000 heroin pills, at No. 161 Cheung Sha Wan Road, ground floor.

R. O. O'Neill stated that the alleged contraband, when examined was found to be devoid of heroin, and was composed in the main of sugar.

Leung Sze, 38, charged for the same offence, was discharged when the case was first brought before the Magistrate.

EARLY START IN CRIME

Two youths, aged 17 and 18, respectively, were bound over in the sum of $10 for a year, when they appeared before Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistrate's court yesterday charged with the theft of two sacks containing sesame seeds from a factory in Sai Kung Road, Kowloon City. A word of advice was given to the boys, Tam King Shun and Chang Shik, who were warned against an early start in crime. The boys, admitted climbing a wall at the rear of the factory. According to Inspector Portallion, the stolen property was recovered.

WIRELESS SUMMONS

HEAVY FINE IMPOSED AT KOWLOON

A remanded summons against P.H. Smith, of No. 268 Prince Edward Road, Kowloon, was heard by Mr. E. Himsforth at the Kowloon Magistrate's court yesterday alleging a breach of wireless ordinance. Defendant in a letter to the Magistrate pleaded guilty to having no licence, but in mitigation stated that he had been away from the Colony for 6 weeks a few days after the purchase of the set, and subsequently had forgotten to obtain a licence.

Detective Sergeant G. Carruthers said that defendant's premises were visited at about 12.15 p.m. on July 20, following information from a dealer that the set was repaired on July 17. A main receiver was installed and defendant who was present at the time, admitted his failure to get a licence. A fine of $40 was imposed, the Magistrate remarking that he would take no heed of defendant's plea on the grounds of forgetfulness. Revenue, from this source would suffer considerably if everyone were forgetful.

AMUSING TALK ON JOURNALISM

Mr. A. E. Pratt Addresses
The Rotary Club

INTERVIEWS DESCRIBED

At the weekly tiffin of the Hong Kong Rotary Club held at the Hong Kong Hotel Roof Garden yesterday afternoon, members were kept in constant laughter listening to an interesting talk on "Leaves from a Journalist's Notebook," given by Mr. Alec. Einar Pratt, a well-known Australian journalist who is on a tour of the Far East studying customs.

Mr. Pratt explained to his audience what was news and the psychology of journalism and described his experiences when interviewing such famous personages as the late Dame Nellie Melba, Pavlova, Chaliapin and Sir Thomas Beecham.

Rotarian R. D. Walker was in the chair and explained that the President, Mr. Thomas Tam, was suffering from the effects of a "felly-fah" sting and was unable to attend. "We hope that at these meetings we get more support at the big table," he added.

The Chairman welcomed Rotarian John A. Sowers, of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce and Rotarian T. T. Poon, of Canton.

GREETINGS FROM OAKLAND

"It is a pleasure at this time," said Rotarian Sowers, "to bring greetings from Oakland and from the Oakland Rotary Club and to carry back greetings from the Hong Kong Rotarians. As some of you probably know I am out on my first trip to the Orient to see something because we in California are very interested in this part of the world. Many people in the world don't know where Oakland is." (Laughter.)

Rotarian Sowers added that the new bridge from Oakland to San Francisco would be soon completed and they hoped to travel over it on November 1, Oakland, he concluded, was getting more important daily.

Among the guests welcomed was Mr. J. Middleton-Smith.

Introducing Mr. Pratt, the Chairman said that he was a visiting journalist from Australia. "He is studying customs in the Far East and so he should tell us something extraordinarily interesting." (Applause.)

THE ADDRESS

Mr. Pratt said:—Mr. President, Members of Rotary and your Guests, When a visitor to a famous London newspaper office—at the rush period, of course—pleasantly asked the much harassed chief sub-editor how he "made-up" his voluminous news-sheet, he gave a withering side-long glance and cryptically replied, "With brains."

But the inquiring visitor was not satisfied. He gazed amazed at the huge accumulation of untouched "copy" heaped high at the sub's right hand. "And how in the world do you get through all that?" he asked. The sub. indicated with his left thumb a monumental waste-paper basket, and, with a soulful sigh and shake of the head, added, "It's God's, greatest gift to the newspaper game." (Laughter.) And I suppose it is a fair estimate that every newspaper of importance, and you can put your own interpretation on that word "importance," receives daily at least one-third more news than it can publish within those increasingly narrow confines left after the voracious advertisers have finished.

But, let's start at the beginning. What is news? It's truly amazing how many smart sayings are attributed to people after their success has inspired a somewhat benumbed public to characterise them as "smart." So, most of the clever saying about newspapers and news are to-day attributed to the founder of the modern style of journalism, Lord Northcliffe. Thus comes the answer to the question, What is News? from the lip of the late Northcliffe:—If you see a dog biting a man, that is NOT news; BUT, if you see a man biting a dog—that IS news. I suppose everybody knows that saying, and I suppose nobody knows just what it means—not even journalists. My view is simply this, News is anything interesting and timely. But this might start a controversy. Therefore, let me say one thing with which I think you will all agree, Journalism is an excellent institution—for journalists.

MAGIC CARPET

Journalists are the weavers of the magic carpet which you receive daily in the form of a newspaper, a magic carpet which transports you to every part of the civilised, and, judging by some of the news, the uncivilised world. Such is the standard of efficiency to which newspaper production has been raised, that when a literal or typographical error creeps into one solitary edition, you will find that a very great percentage of the reading public has noticed it. An advertiser who desired to test the "pulling power" of a certain publication tried the experiment of deliberately misspelling the most important word in his full-page insertion. The thousands of customers who flocked to his store and commented to the sales-people on "that stupid mistake in spelling" did a great deal to convince that man of the age-old truth that "advertising pays."

The newspaper on which I worked in Melbourne, published every Saturday a paper which contained over 500,000 words. The average length of a novel is 100,000 words. So, typographically at least, five novels were represented in the "set-up" of that paper. The most careful checks were made, and the statistics proved that over a period of twelve editions selected at random, only two errors had escaped those responsible in the various departments. I have often been asked how information, which is news, is obtained from those who are sufficiently exalted or sufficiently intriguing to make statements falling from their lips leap into flaming headlines. Well, news is not in the habit of walking in to an office. Somebody has to go out and get it, and it is occasionally necessary to employ the patience of Job, the wisdom of Solomon and the suavity of a maître d'hotel or an ambassador, to snare the story. Now, please don't misunderstand me. I'm not built that way, but, as an ordinary working journalist out on the road, I have to go through the hoops when the whip's cracked.

LATE DAME MELBA

One of the earliest experiences of my journalistic life was to interview the late Dame Nellie Melba. I studied Law before I sunk my social status and ascended to altruism through journalism. It was well that I had that law experience, for, amongst other things, the law gives one a fine sense of the instability of human purpose and almost every kink of character. So, when they told me I was due to be taken for a ride to the magnificent and beautiful home of Dame Nellie—Coombe Cottage, delightfully situated among the foothills of the Healsville ranges about forty miles from Melbourne—I had an "idea I was 'for it'." The point was, she had just returned from one of her periodical visits to Britain, and had brought back what was rumored to be a remarkable collection of art treasures. Moreover, she had met many people who were well in the international news. Yet, not one word would she say, not one interview give. You know, some journalists don't need to actually get interviews. They just take a look at the subject matter through a window, and go off and write a snappy half column of really heart-to-heart copy. As the car swung up the drive of Melba's home, I was turning over in my mind certain features of the great prima donna's career, particularly her early struggles. One feature seemed to stand out above all others—she never cringed, and she loathed toddlers and snobs. Her loathing of those despicable characteristics had to be heard to be properly appreciated. The car stopped. I told the driver to go down the road a mile or so to the nearest sanctuary, and "have one on me" till I joined him. I had an inkling I'd need more than a drive home after the job was over.

Thompson, Melba's butler and travel attendant for many years, opened the door as butlers do—noiselessly, almost coyly. I gave him a full dental smile. He reciprocated gravely yet not ungraciously. "I wish to see Dame Nellie," I said in tones of perfumed oil. "Her ladyship is not at home," answered Thompson in tones of icing-sugar and arsenic.

UNADULTERATED GATE-CRASHING

"That's extremely unfortunate," I replied with all the pathos I could muster, "because my business is really most vital, and, besides, I added with vanishing saliva, "I observed Dame Nellie reading in that little cream-curtain alcove room as I came up the drive. And that was not a shot in the dark, for I had actually caught a fleeting glimpse of a not-too-slender lady of Melba's dimensions, reading in that room. Then, my lucky star took a leap. I distinctly heard a trill. Footsteps down the passage: a voice, commanding as Everest and as firm as Gibraltar:—"Shut that door. I'm cold." But I beat Thompson to it. In a twinkling I was past him, and facing the imperious Queen of Song—an example of unadulterated gate-crashing. I won't say she snorted, but her eyes definitely narrowed. I was in, and in for it as well. So I let go, blind to all consequences. This is what I allowed to rush from my lips like a river in spate: "I was ordered to see you, and I have. I was also ordered to interview you. She was a bit taken aback at this. Thompson, of course, was desolated. I couldn't have looked at him and kept my face straight for all the treasures of Coombe. Melba spoke not one word, but she looked whole libraries.

She was at least hearing me, I said to myself, so I tried a little psychological experiment. Melba was hard as nails, but she cherished some of the tenderest memories woman ever had. "You know, Dame Nellie," I quietly continued, "if Marchant had refused to give you a hearing when you came to his door with your son in your arms, what would you have felt?" Melba calmly and rather witheringly eyed me, then, in a voice reminiscent of loggnettes, and diamonds, asked, "Who are you and what paper sent you?"

I supplied the information, giving my age but not my status in journalism.

She motioned to Thompson. The door closed—and I was still in. He took some of my belongings from me; and then I followed Melba into her charming little study.

Sue motioned me to a chair. Looking me straight in the eye, she commenced, "Now, I'm not a fool, and I know what publicity means, but I haven't given interviews since my return because I don't want people to pry into my affairs. I've had more than enough trouble with the Customs over the things I brought out from London, and any publicity may start them thinking they'd forgotten something. That's all. It's just business." A pause. Then, "Of course, I shouldn't say such things to you." I assured her that I never betrayed a confidence, and I said here, that any newspaper that expects a journalist to violate a confidence is not worth working for. Well, to cut the story shorter, I persuaded Melba to show me over her home, which was one of her greatest prizes, and tell me stories about some of her choicest treasures which had been gifts from world-famous personages, and others which she had discovered in out-of-the-way places and bartered for. Not one "timely" word was to creep into the interview. It was all to be "old stuff."

She told me on later occasions that strolling through her rooms and talking about gifts which stirred such dynamic memories on that morning, had given her real pleasure. "For," she used to say with a flash of defiance, "I'm proud of what I've got."

TWO-COLUMN STORY

After lunch she mentioned casually that she was contemplating giving certain of her treasures to the national art gallery. I asked her if I could use that part of the interview, and she agreed. The result was a two-column story describing a remarkable private collection, the whole write-up being carried by her last remark that the nation might receive some of the exquisitely beautiful objects described in the story.

One story which was inspired as she handled a lovely little tapestry given her by the Empress of Germany showed the dignity and character of Melba. She had appeared at the Berlin opera house before the Kaiser and his consort. After the performance, Melba was commanded to attend the Royal box, presumably to receive the Royal compliments. The Empress was very gracious, but the Kaiser rather stiffly returned her bow. Then, with a certain imperiousness in his tone, he said, "I enjoyed your performance, but you took the latter part of the aria in the final scene too slowly."

TRAFALGAR SIGNALS

Commander H. P. Mead, R.N., formerly a flag lieutenant and signal and wireless officer, who has made a special study of the history of signalling, has published a pamphlet on "Trafalgar Signals" (price 1s. 6d.) through Percival Marshall and Co. It is hoped that it may be of help to other naval officers who have not had the inclination or opportunity for unearthing certain elusive references on the subject. Commander Mead recalls the controversy which ensued when the late Mr. W. G. Perrin, Admiralty Librarian, announced in a letter to "The Times" on May 13, 1908, that the wrong flags were in use to denote Nelson's signals at Trafalgar. The present Lord Nelson supplied a foreword to the pamphlet.

OFFICER TITLES REVISED

Revised titles are to be brought into use immediately for officers promoted to the ranks of paymaster, lieutenant or paymaster lieutenant-commander in the writer, supply, and cookery branches. The initials in brackets which have hitherto denoted these branches are abolished. Paymaster lieutenant (W) will in future be known as paymaster lieutenant, as will paymaster lieutenant (S) and paymaster lieutenant (C).

Up to 1922, when the Supply Branch was created, the rank attainable in the victualling department of the Service was known as paymaster lieutenant (V), but the notation (S) was then substituted. The paymaster lieutenant (C) was formerly known as lieutenant instructor in cookery, the change being made by Order in Council dated May 22, 1931.

DO THE PEOPLE WANT WAR?

People do not want war. The voice with which the people have spoken, even in what are deemed the more belligerent nations, discloses that men and women in their personal aspirations live and breathe a continuous mandate of peace to their rulers.

Yet militarism and the fear of militarism are rampant. Russia, France, Britain, Italy and the United States are mobilizing a large part of their economy, their thoughts and their energies in the direction of war. The Director of the International Labour Office has just proclaimed that the fear of war is "laying a blight on all prospects."

What, then, is to be concluded? Does statecraft, propelled either by stupid fixation to tradition or ensnared by leaders' ambitions for personal prestige and power, criminally or blindly misrepresent the people? Perhaps in some nations and to some degree statecraft can be so indicted. But statecraft is itself enthralled. Powerful segments of a nation's population may, for instance, be exerting irresistible pressure for the acquisition of raw materials, for the maintenance of a monopoly in oil, for the breaking down of another monopoly in rubber, for the protection of a domestic market with tariff restrictions, for the annexation of more territory. In short these pressure groups may be forcing statesmen to the pursuit of competitive policies which are inherently provocative of strife.

The popular will to "peace," presents itself mainly in the light of a great, constructive motive. This motive will remain static, unless it devises means of bringing statecraft to "do its will." Most important of all, it must address itself to the arduous task of removing those pressures—those economic, social and cultural compulsions which push statecraft into policies hostile to the popular will to peace. This presupposes that the people shall do more than cultivate their gardens and sigh for an unearned peace. It means that they must become politically, morally and economically informed in order to vote and agitate wisely on decisive issues.

Within two years people have demonstrated their power to act both in controlling their statesmen directly in behalf of peace and in mitigating those conditions that force the hands of statesmen in the direction of war. One man, Viscount Cecil of Great Britain, engineered a peace ballot that modified the foreign policy of the greatest Empire in the World and vetoed the Hoare-Laval plan. In America popular enlightenment, has supported a neutrality policy that has modified the freedom of the seas doctrine.

It is well, at this time, that diplomats be summoned to this realization: that if their quest for national advantage and security through precarious treaties and alliances lead to war, they will have achieved a tragic misrepresentation of their peoples' earnest desire.

OLYMPIC GAMES
SUCCESSFriendly Spirit
Stressed

(Hong Kong Daily Press) Special

Berlin, Aug. 18. The "Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz" writes on the Olympic Games:

"The German Nation may claim to have loyally taken part in promoting the genuine Olympic spirit, as indeed it was bound to do in its role as host of this spirit in its relations with other nations and in all spheres of political life."

The harmonious life among the 53 represented nations in Berlin called for a comparison with the "other place" where every year also the representatives of the nations come together for work which they call "co-operation." It is just there that the brotherly spirit which can only be obtained among equals, has not been the standard maxim. The Olympic Festival had shown that the peoples themselves did desire blocks and alliances in the shape or form known hitherto, the people themselves definitely wanted peace and nothing had shown this more plainly than the harmonious living in the Olympic Village in Berlin.

It is greatly to be desired that those who want to make sin or even create disharmonies, should no longer be allowed to call themselves defenders of justice; but be recognised as the real instigators of discord.

LOATH TO LEAVE

Berlin, Aug. 18. Many competitors in the Olympic Games, find the living conditions in the Olympic Village so idyllic, that they are loath to leave it, and with the kind permission of the Military Authorities, to whom the Village belongs, are extending their stay beyond the official period.

Among those who find themselves unable to say good-bye so quickly are members of the Chinese team with the exception of the footballers. They are now taking the opportunity to see Berlin in peace and quietness, and will not leave until the beginning of September.

ITALIAN PRAISE

Rome, Aug. 18. The Italian Press unanimously in unrestrained praise speaks of the athletic accomplishments and the organisation of the Berlin Olympic Games.

The "Messaggero" states that the Games will remain in a high place of estimation in the sphere of International Sports because of the extraordinary achievements and the high standard of the competitions.

The "Gazzetta del Popolo" designates the Festival as demonstrative proof of the organising ability of a mighty nation. While the "Gazzetta dello Sport" points out the triumphs of the German competitors as an outstanding sensation. The "Pololo di Roma" emphasises the extreme significance of the games from an international point of view, stating that only those who were present can appreciate the actual sporting as well as the political importance.

TEN-WICKET VICTORY

London, August 18.

England, after winning the first Test cricket match against All-India and drawing the second, secured the rubber by a ten-wicket victory in the final match at the Oval which concluded to-day.

The visiting cricketers gave every promise of being able to stay long at the wickets, but after the dismissal of C. K. Nayudu (81) with the total at 295 for 7, the remaining three wickets fell for 17 runs. England lost one wicket (Fagg) in scoring 64 to win.

The weather was dull with a cheerless sun breaking through when Hussain (30) and Jilani (12) continued their innings in All-India's second effort which had so far yielded 156 for 3.

Jilani was caught by Fagg at third slip off Allen. It was a fine catch with the left hand quite low down. The batsman had not added anything to his 12 runs, 159 for 4.

C. K. Nayudu came on and later saw Hussain l.b.w. to Sims under the new rule. Hussain had scored 54. 212 for 5. Wazir Ali scored a single to be caught at the wicket by Duckworth off Allen, 220 for 6. The score was carried to 287 at lunch time, Nayudu 75 and Ramaswami 24.

Nayudu had a leading part in the recovery of the visitors during the morning. He skillfully cut the fast ones and when seventeen had been completed he had the distinction of having scored a thousand runs for the tour.

Ramaswami was confident, but he received no support after Nayudu's departure. The latter succumbed to an in-swinging from Allen, 81—295 for 7. He was 145 minutes at the wicket and hit eight boundaries.

Maharaj Kumar of Vizianagram was bowled by Allen after scoring a single, 207 for 8. Jehangir Khan was taken at second slip by Voce off Allen. His contribution also being a single, 309 for 9. Nissar, who had not scored a run, was caught at mid-on by Voce off Sims. Ramaswami was not out with 41 scored in 105 minutes. With extras the total was 312.

ENGLAND BATS

Barnett and Fagg went on to score the required 64 runs. The former played an enterprising innings and saw his partner caught by Amar Singh off Nissar. Fagg scored 22 with powerful hooking and pulling to fine leg. With one wicket down for 42, Hammond came on and 64 was reached without further loss, Hammond scoring 5 and Barnett 32.

RED CROSS FREELY ABUSED IN MADRID

Militia In Control At Capital BRAVE MEN BUT POORLY EQUIPPED

Armed With Old Weapons From Museums

Gibraltar, August 18.
"The Government militia contains some of the bravest men I have ever seen, but their position is made difficult by the fact that hardly any of them are armed with anything approaching efficient weapons," declared an experienced observer from Madrid.
The informant added that the militia in many cases were armed with nothing better than fowling pieces, some even being given old weapons from museums, many of which had not been fired for over a century. "I have even seen militia men and women marching to the front line brandishing long-barrelled Moorish guns as seen in the Foreign Legion films," he said.

REBELS ENTRENCHED

"I believe the insurgents are in a position to control Madrid, he continued. "They are firmly established at Guadarrama mountains with a good supply of ammunition and with men able to fire them."
The militia with ancient blunderbusses attack incessantly but they are impotent to dislodge them.

"The insurgents have only to await reinforcements before the capital will be at their mercy."
The observer affirmed that the Government have made all preparations to quit. Three large airliners stationed at Barajas aerodrome, seven miles distant are ready to evacuate them.

ONLY A SANDBAG!
An insurgent aeroplane flew over Madrid and dropped a small sandbag at Puerta del Sol attached to which was a note saying: "this is only a sandbag; how easy it will be to drop bombs!"

Meanwhile only one train is daily leaving Madrid eastward whence food supplies come by train supposedly destined from Valencia but recently have gone from Alicante. It would appear therefore that the rising in Valencia is more serious than the Government admits.

CUT-THROATS ACTIVE
Cutting off the Madrid electricity at 11 p.m. as an air raid precaution was abandoned as the Government found that a blackout favoured the numerous outrages by cut-throats occurring almost every night.
The Casa del Campo workmen's resort outside Madrid has been closed because of insanitary conditions due to decaying bodies of the victims of terror.

DISORDER IN MADRID
The Red Cross is freely abused, even girls dressed as nurses carrying rifles, while every Red Cross car carries armed men.
Militiamen completely control Madrid. Women, even foreigners, dare not venture out into the streets wearing hats, which incites taunts of being bourgeois, while Anarchists and Communists threaten to shoot all wearing ties if the insurgents reach the capital.
Many palaces of aristocracy have been confiscated and looted, many treasures having completely disappeared.

ALL GERMANS RELEASED
Berlin, Aug. 17.
It is semi-officially announced that all Germans arrested in Spain have now been released, including the crew of the aeroplane seized by the Madrid Government. The releases were achieved after energetic diplomatic representations.

The bombardment was not heavy, only one shell being fired about every half hour.

Count Romanones, reputedly the richest man in Spain, and well-known politician was arrested, it is reported, and added to the prisoners being held as hostages in Fort Guadalupe.

Hendaye has witnessed all day an exodus from Fuenterrabia, from which the inhabitants are crossing the river in boats laden with all kinds of goods. Some even swam and waded across the river.

which the Nationalists intend to put through, should they finally seize power, the programme having fallen into the hands of the police in the course of a raid.

BELL RETURNED TO GERMANY

British Admiralty Gesture

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special)

Kiel, Aug. 17.
A testimony of the feeling of good comradeship existing between the Naval men was given on Monday, when in the course of a small ceremony Commander Bedford of the British cruiser "Neptune" handed the Commander-in-Chief of the German Navy, Admiral Raeder, the bell of the German cruiser Hindenburg, one of the bells of the German vessels scuttled by the Germans at Scapa Flow, when the fleet was handed over there according to the Treaty of Versailles.

On returning the bell, Captain Bedford said that it was an honour to be authorised by the Admiralty to return the bell, which had belonged to the ship bearing the name of the famous late President and Field Marshal. The restoration of the bell was a symbol of the friendship which existed between the two Navies, of which the British cruiser had many proofs whilst staying in Kiel.

In requesting Captain Bedford to convey the thanks of the German Navy to the British Admiralty, Admiral Raeder said:
"We will regard this bell as the symbol for the fulfilment of the desire of our Fuehrer, which is that Germany live at peace with the racially related British Nation, since no conflict of interest exists between them. This wish is greeted by nobody more heartily than by the German Navy."

Salengro's Speech On Spain

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special)

Paris, Aug. 17.
Monday's Right Wing papers make sharp comments on the speech held on Sunday in Lille by Minister of Interior, Salengro. In course of the speech, Salengro declared, according to the "Echo de Paris," "The day will come, of that we are sure, when the German and Austrian people will manage to regain their liberty."

Going on to deal with the events in Spain, the Minister of Interior is unanimously reported by the Paris Right Wing press to have said "I realise my responsibility, and weigh every word: first as a Frenchman and then as a member of the Government. I wish that on the other side of the Pyrenees the legal Government of the country with which we are friends, may soon gain the victory."

The "Echo de Paris" terms this statement "scandalous." The Minister of Interior had interfered in the Spanish affairs at a moment where the Government was declining the intention to remain neutral. The question arose whether this was not the beginning of a change in the policy of the Popular Front, which was now coming openly to the aid of Madrid.

("Hong Kong Daily Press" Special)

Berlin, August 18.
A semi-official communique issued here states that the French ambassador informed the German government on Monday of the agreement reached by the French and British governments concerning the attitude to be observed by them towards the events in Spain. Under the terms of this agreement both governments will prohibit the export of arms, munitions, aircraft, warships and other war materials to Spain as well as to the Spanish colonies and Spanish Morocco, as soon as the Italian, Russian, Portuguese and German governments have signified their adherence to the agreement in question.

The communique goes on to say that the German government in reply stated that it was likewise prepared to issue a similar prohibition on the following conditions: 1, that the German commercial aeroplane, still kept back by the Spanish government, be released; and 2, that all countries possessing industries capable of producing war materials and aircraft on a large scale shall assume the same obligations and that, in particular, the supply of any kind of war materials by private firms or individuals shall also be prohibited.

RIFLEMEN SENT TO PRISON

Charge Of Robbing
Taxi Driver

SESSIONS CASE

Three riflemen in the Royal Ulster Rifles were convicted by the Chief Justice, Sir Athol MacGregor yesterday, the first day of the Criminal Sessions, on charges of robbery.

The first two accused, Thomas Todd and Sydney Brown, were sentenced to two years with hard labour, while the third, Thomas Barker, was sentenced to eighteen months with hard labour.

The Assistant Attorney General, E. H. Williams, appeared on behalf of the Crown for the prosecution.

The jury empanelled consisted of Messrs S. M. Gidley (foreman), Cheung Henry U. Kong, Sheik Hassan Ismail, Ernest Hausman, T. L. Knight, E. J. de J. Figueiredo, F. X. N. Mendes, the name of J. C. Gutierrez was called, but he was absent from the Court.

The three accused were charged with robbery of a taxi driver, Leung Yiu, along the Castle Peak Road, on July 6.

All three defendants pleaded not guilty.

CROWN CASE

Mr. Williams outlined the case by saying that the victim was a licensed taxi driver of car number 766.

The defendants were quartered at Victoria Barracks, and at 10 p.m. on July 5, they were seen talking to each other on the verandah.

At about 1.25 the next morning, at the taxi-stand at the Kowloon Ferry, three Europeans hired a vehicle of which Kwok Fung Cheung was the driver. One of the men carried a suit case which was produced in Court. The driver was asked if he could take them to a cheap Chinese hotel, and they were taken to one on Nathan Road. Eventually they were taken to the Jordan Road wharf, where they alighted.

At about 2.05 a.m. Leung Yiu was driving along Nathan Road, and when he came abreast of the Mongkok Fire Station, he was hailed by three Europeans. They were perfectly sober, and wanted to be taken to Stonecutter's Island. Leung informed them that he could take them to the Star Ferry where they could hire a motor boat to take them there. They refused, and got into the taxi, and told him to drive on.

Some distance between the fifth and sixth milestone to Castle Peak, they were undecided as to where they wanted to go. When Leung asked them, they answered that they wanted to go to Fanling. The fare at that time was $1.10 but it was not paid.

A discussion was held outside the taxi in the rear, and someone shouted to him, "Come on!" He refused to leave the car, and the tallest of the three came up on the left side and struck him in the face a violent blow. He pulled out his police whistle, and blew on it twice before he was struck again this time on the right side. He was beaten on both sides, and before he lost consciousness, he had enough presence of mind to take the ignition key out and hid it under his tongue. When he regained consciousness he found himself on the side of the road against a tree, gagged, and bound.

He was bleeding profusely from the mouth and nose when he eventually freed himself. Wanting to see the time, he found that his watch was missing, besides the sum of $11, in dollar notes, and the taxi was nowhere to be seen. Arriving at the Lai Chi Kok Prison, he was escorted to the Shamshuipo Police Station where he received attention.

At about 3 a.m. a number of rickshaw coolies took three Europeans to the Yau Ma Tei Wharf, where they engaged a motor boat to cross the harbour.

BACK AT BARRACKS

Arriving at Blake Pier at 3.50 a.m. the party went to the Wellington Barracks where a policeman on duty saw them hesitating at the foot of the hill. They finally decided to ascend, and the policeman saw that the first accused was carrying a suitcase. The second accused struck at him, but missed, whereupon he blew his whistle. Upon the arrival of aid the three were escorted to the guard-house, where they were detained.

A search of the suitcase disclosed articles, and clothing belonging to the first and second accused. On the person of Brown was found a whistle. No money was found on any of them.

Accompanying the taxi-driver, Serg. Goodwin, found the taxi close to the Lai Chi Kok Prison. The inside was in complete disorder.

The next morning, the driver attended an identification parade and recognised the first accused, but neither of the others. He definitely recognised his flashlight and the whistle, he had carved the words, "Taxi 714" on the torch.

Mr. Williams concluded that the Crown's case against the accused had to be proved on two main points: firstly, that there had been a robbery, and secondly, that each accused was a party to robbery against Leung Yiu.

EVIDENCE CALLED

Kwok Fung Cheung, the first witness, said that he was a licensed taxi driver, and repeated what Mr. Williams had said previously, of how he had taken three Europeans to the Chinese hotel, and finally left them at the Mongkok Ferry.

Leung Yiu, next in the witness box, deposed that he was hailed as he was driving on Nathan Road at about 2.05 a.m.

The party hailed him wanted to go to Stonecutter's Island, and changed their mind, and told him to proceed towards Castle Peak. He could not recognise the three accused, but recognised the second now that he had a good side-view of him.

At the fifth or sixth milestone, he could understand enough English to know that the party were undecided as to where they wanted to go, and stopped the car. The defendants walked out behind the car, and had a consultation, and yelled at him, "Come here!"

However, he remained in the cab, and the tallest of the three opened the door on the left, and struck him a blow in the face. He drew out his whistle, and was able to give two blasts on it before he was struck on the other side. The whistle was snatched from him. He hid the ignition key under his tongue before he was beaten into unconsciousness.

Upon his recovery, he was gagged, and his hands and feet were bound by ties. His watch was missing, also eleven dollar notes.

The first accused questioned the witness by saying that he had told two different stories, while Brown, the second defendant, asked why he was identified then and not at the parade. Witness replied that his eyes were sore at the time, and that he did not have a good side-view of defendant's face as he had now.

The third accused admitted his presence there by saying that the cab was moving at the time that

GREAT CROWDS AT EXHIBITION

(Hong Kong Daily Press Special)

Berlin, Aug. 17.

About 1.3 million visitors turned the turnstiles at the Exhibition "Germany," which was organised in Berlin in order to give the Olympic visitors a true impression of Germany. This is the first time that one exhibition in Germany is visited by so many people.

Spectators and journalists are unanimous that the exhibition presents a comprehensive study of Germany's social, cultural, commercial and political life.

Squadron Leader E. S. Borthwick-Clarke, who has recently been promoted has been serving since April, 1935, as Adjutant of No. 6 Flying Training School, Netheravon.

From July, 1918, he was an assistant instructor at No. 13 Training Depot Station. A permanent commission as flying officer was granted him in August, 1919, and he served in the Middle East until 1921, and at Aden in 1928-30. In 1930-34 he was in command of a flight of No. 17 (Fighter) Squadron at Upavon.

AS GOOD AS GOLD

Melba bowed slightly. Then, drawing herself to her full and commanding height, answered in level tones. "Your Majesty will please remember that whilst your Majesty is the Emperor of Germany, I am the Queen of Song." (Laughter).

With a twinkle in her eye, she added to me, "That fixed him." He just walked out, but bowed to me quite nicely!"

The interviewer is continually in a psychological laboratory, and every subject presents some new angle to be tackled. Once you get past Melba's barrier-like cynicism, she would take you into her confidence and talk with invigorating enthusiasm. Pavlova, for instance, was a totally different type.

PAVLOVA INTERVIEWED

I was sent to "do" her. It was one of those carefully prepared impromptu interviews at which the leading lady must appear as spontaneous as a combustible haystack. Her manager was there; her leading man; her secretary; her agent, and the entrepreneur. I entered the room of her suite, and faced all that. One good feature was this, Pavlova always consented to individual interviews, provided they did not exceed ten minutes, and there were not more than five interviewers. So, there being five dailies in Melbourne, I came in for my share solo. I was introduced; Pavlova gave me a hand-shake which I could not term conventional. Rather hearty, I thought. Then she patted a place for me on the three beside her, and started the interview thus:—"I shall say nothing unless you ask me the questions. Now, come along, I am in the witness box!"

"It took me just a second or two to get over the shock, then my reaction was to fire question after question at her, and she answered with an enthusiasm which gave me a younger and more innocent heart—that reference is, by the way, to me—a great thrill. They say a woman always has the last word. Well, Pavlova had, but she at least let a mere male have all the firsts."

CHALLAPIN THE ACTOR

Challapin was the man, though! He gave me the impression that if he ever stopped acting for a moment, he'd die. They put me down to "do" him when he made his first and only appearance in Australia, opening in Melbourne. I can see the great, big, conceited, likeable, childish, egotistical, ennobler of masterpieces sitting in the centre of his family—they were all very happy in those days—with the most amazing variety of rings on his long, white fingers, dipping into a huge box of crystallised fruits—speaking with his elastic mouth full.

After a handshake, he waved to the girls and his wife and proclaimed, "My family." He said it in a way that left room for only one answer, "Congratulations!" To which, he casually rejoined, "Oh, that's alright!" As much as to say, "My dear fellow, I can do all things well." He could certainly tuck into crystallised fruit. Then, majestically, without asking anyone what they'd like, he called for coffee, telling me with great deliberation, that it should be "black as Night, hot as Hell, sweet as Love."

After a sip, he rose, from his couch, strolled about the room, stopping to dab in the crystallised fruit box every few turns up and down the room. If any of you saw that fine talking picture, "The Guardsman," you'll know what I mean when I say Challapin was the Guardsman all over. On and off the stage—he acted, and made absolutely no disguise that he loved to be the centre of attraction. There was no messing about with him. When he'd had enough, he said so. This is how he finished me: "Now, if you've got any brains, you've heard enough to make a great article." Then, with a most disarming smile, he dramatically thrust out his bejewelled hand, and—well, I ask you, what could a fellow do?

SIR THOMAS BEECHAM

Let me tell you one about Sir Thomas Beecham. For several months in London in 1930 I was the go-between Melba, Beecham and Lady Snowden—then Mrs. Philip Snowden, a member of the B.B.C. The idea was Melba's, and if it had materialised, it would have meant permanent national opera at Covent Garden. Melba was to select artists; Beecham to conduct; Lady Snowden to get the B.B.C. to stand solidly behind the undertaking from the point of view of assuring certain revenue from scheduled broadcasts over the national network. Of course, I don't think if you had been provided with a magic wand you could have got those three very individualistic people to come together. If the plan had succeeded I feel sure someone would have been put "on the spot."

Well, I went to the Hyde Park hotel for my first interview with Beecham. It was a foggy morning. Beecham's apartments were a study in olive green and he wore an elaborate bright green velvet dressing gown. It was a foggy affair, giving to the carefully moustached maestro the appearance of an alchemist about to do something unusual at any odd moment. The lights were full up, the heavy curtains drawn.

He greeted me languidly. "If nature must turn day into night in London, then I am determined to make it a proper night." And at 11 in the morning, champagne was served. Beecham was caustic. His contempt for the lack of support in Britain for what he termed "real art," would have made even Bernard Shaw go as green with envy as Beecham's dressing gown. He kept on telling me that national opera could not succeed because it could not be managed or financed properly. Then came the man in all his luxurious egotism. Turning to me, with a curl of the lip, and swirl of the moustache, he remarked, or rather declared, "Why! Even I could not make opera pay!"

Beecham was out for a stroll one afternoon in August. It had promised to be cold, but had defaulted. Beecham was wearing a coat when the sun decided to break-up the greys into bright blues and whites. He became slightly warm. Looking about him, he espied a taxi. Hailed it. Peeled off his coat. Threw it inside the car, then turned to the driver and gave this astonishing order, "Drive around after me!"

You can imagine that Cockney taximan murmuring, "Gorblimey, ain't 'e queer?"

But, like the music, I could go round and around, but I must come out here. I've got a lot of other experiences snatched from my notebook—or should I call it a scrap-book?—but I thought human beings would interest you more to-day than events and thrills. Let's leave Beecham having his pleasant stroll, unencumbered with that coat which he was too graceful to carry, and hope that some day he, as the great maestro, will come to Hong Kong where dress is simply one continual, liberal and liberalising education.

ATTEMPTED ARMED ROBBERY

Case At Sessions

The third case in the Criminal Session before the Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, was adjourned until 10 a.m. this morning.

Cheng Chung was charged with attempted armed robbery at 52 Ship Street, on April 6, with others not in custody.

The jury: M. V. Xavier, C. Onslow, F. H. Glover (foreman), A. H. Aziz, W. M. T. Jockisch, Lee Shi Fong, Loney Siu Duck.

Mr. E. H. Williams, the Assistant Attorney General, prosecuted for the Crown.

On April 6, said Mr. Williams, the defendant and others inquired at 52, Ship Street, of So Fat, the principal tenant, for a place to stay. In the afternoon, he returned with the others, and was carrying a basket.

The servant admitted them, but she was seized by the neck. However, she screamed once. They went to So Fat's cubicle where he was then sleeping, and in the ensuing struggle, the assailants fled.

On July 11, the defendant was found in a Queen's Road West flat on information, and he was

TRANSFER OF GIRL FOR MONEY

Defence Submission Succeeds

CONSENT OF MINOR

So Yee, a woman aged 42, and Chan Suk-yin, another woman, were charged before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Court yesterday with taking part in a transaction for the transfer of a minor, Lau Wai-tan alias Lol Ho, aged 15, for a valuable consideration at No. 6, Triangle Street on July 22.

Mr. W. A. Brown represented the first defendant and Mr. A. El Arculli appeared for the second defendant. Inspector E. J. Ellis, for the prosecution, said that the case had first come to the notice of the S.C.A. through certain information received by Inspector H. W. Fraser regarding the ill-treatment of a suspected unregistered mul tsa. Inspector Fraser, with a lady Inspector went to visit the second floor of No. 178, Lockhart Road. There they found the girl, living with the second defendant, who also had another girl aged 7, adopted from the Po Leung Kuk, and a daughter aged 5.

On being questioned the girl said that she had been with the second defendant, since July 22, and was sold by her former employer, So Yee, for the sum of $120, the transaction taking place at No. 6, Triangle Street, which was the address of the first defendant. So Yee admitted that as the girl had not been behaving herself, she had sent her to stay with the second defendant. The girl agreed to stay at this house and the second defendant then gave the first defendant $120 so as not to cause her any loss.

SAW MONEY PASS

The girl in the witness box said that she had actually seen the $120 being handed over.

Cross-examined she admitted that she knew that the first defendant was the head of a money-lenders' association and that the second defendant was a member. Inspector Fraser and the lady Inspector also gave evidence.

The defence submitted that as the transaction had taken place with the consent of the minor there was no offence under the law.

Mr. Schofield agreed and discharged the first defendant on the present charge, but on the previous charge, which had been the subject of a previous case where judgment was deferred until the conclusion of the present case, she was fined $150 or two months.

Mr. Brown pleaded mitigating circumstances in that case and pointed out that the original intention of the purchase of the girl, in the first case, was marriage.

Mr. Schofield held that the second defendant had a case to answer under a harbouring charge.

Mr. Arculli applied for an adjournment in order to prepare to address His Worship on that matter.

The case was adjourned until Thursday at 11.30 a.m.

TYPHOON STRIKES MACAO

LOSS OF MANY LIVES REPORTED

A severe typhoon, stated to be the worst since 1922, caused considerable havoc in Macao in the early hours of Monday. The wind velocity was practically similar to the typhoon that passed south of Hong Kong and left extensive damage in its wake.

It is reported that 200 lives were lost in the disaster in Macao following the collapse of a number of houses. Tides, too, were abnormal.

The Portuguese city was in total darkness, and many of the thoroughfares were flooded with water six feet in depth.

Canton and neighbouring cities also experienced strong winds but the damage done was not so extensive.

charged with assault and attempted robbery.

On August 4, defendant was put up for identification, and the master of the former residence identified him.

At this stage the Court was adjourned until 10 a.m. this morning.

MEMORIAL HOSPITAL MEETING

Difficult Financial Year Reported

TRIBUTE PAID TO LATE DR. GIBSON

Reference to the death of Dr. R. M. Gibson, M.B.E., who left the Colony on May 4 prior to retirement, was made by the Deputy Chairman, the Hon. Mr. A. W. Hughes at the annual general meeting of the Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals, held yesterday in the board room of the Hong Kong Jockey Club, Exchange Buildings.

The Hon. Mr. Hughes who took the chair in the unavoidable absence of the Hon. Dr. S. W. Ts'o (Chairman of the Executive Committee) said that news of the death of Dr. Gibson came as a great blow, as the deceased had intended to settle in the Colony after meritorious service rendered to the hospitals.

Dr. Gibson first came to the Colony in 1897 and except for a short period had been connected with the Alice Memorial and Affiliated Hospitals all that time.

Those present at the meeting included: Hon. Mr. A. W. Hughes (Deputy Chairman of the Executive Committee), Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall, Hon. Mr. W. H. Bell, Hon. Mr. T. N. Chau, Messrs. E. Stevenson, M. F. Key, P. C. Hall, A. Sommerfeld, Tang Shiu-kin, Miss M. Ward (Matron) Dr. J. W. Anderson, Dr. F. R. Ashton, Dr. R. M. Alderton the Rev. F. Short, (members of the Executive Committee) and Mrs. Alderton.

Before giving notice convening the meeting, the Mr. Hughes referred to the absence of the Hon. Dr. Ts'o who he said was confined to his house for two or three days owing to eye trouble experienced because of the typhoon.

In expressing sympathy for the relatives of the late Dr. Gibson, the Deputy Chairman said he felt sure that he had the approval of those present to instruct the Secretary to send the complete minutes of the present meeting to the relatives of the deceased.

As a mark of respect to the memory of the deceased doctor, the meeting stood in silence for a few minutes.

CHAIRMAN'S SPEECH

Addressing the meeting Hon. Mr. Hughes said:

In moving the adoption of the Report and Statement of Accounts for 1935, I should like to take the opportunity of drawing your attention to some of the points mentioned in the Superintendent's and Matron's Reports.

The work of the Hospitals has been carried on during the year still subject to the difficulties and lack of accommodation caused by the demolition of the old Netherlands Hospital. Towards the end of the year, in anticipation of building operations during 1936 alterations were made in the Ho Min Ling Hospital and the women and children were transferred to that building, the men patients being now received in the Alice Hospital. This alteration, with certain other adjustments, has enabled us to increase the number of beds for women and children and to give better accommodation for the seeing of out-patients. It will also enable the work to be carried on while building is in progress with less inconvenience and dislocation than would otherwise have been the case.

The number of in-patients during the year shows an increase as compared with 1934, the number admitted being 1,787 as compared with 1,613 during 1934, though this figure is of course considerably less than the numbers we were able to treat before the demolition of the Netherlands Hospital, and we have had to send away patients during the year because of lack of accommodation.

The number of out-patient visits was 19,355 as compared with 18,642 during 1934.

The year has been a difficult one financially and a deficit was incurred on the year's working, partly owing to the reduced amount received as refunds from patients, and partly to the fact that we were not able to receive the usual number of donations from our Chinese friends before the close of the accounts. While emphasizing the need of the Building Fund we would ask our friends not to forget our needs for annual upkeep.

NURSES TRAINING

There have been twenty-eight nurses in training during the year. Five have passed the examination of the Hong Kong Midwives' Board, having obtained the certificate of the Hong Kong Nurses' Board, and of the eleven who took the preliminary examination, eight obtained honours.

Considerable progress was made during the year in collecting funds for the rebuilding of the Netherse Hospital. During the year the Hong Kong Government very kindly promised to make a dollar for dollar Grant for every dollar specially collected up to $50,000.00, and a special appeal for this $50,000.00 has been made. Up to December 31st 1935 a sum of $11,750.89 had been received towards this special appeal, including a donation of $10,000.00 from Madam Wu Ting Fang. We are very grateful to Madam Wu for her generous gift and to the other donors, and hope that others will be encouraged to give liberally so that we may be able to take advantage of the Government's promise without undue delay. To those to whom a special piece of work makes an appeal we should like to mention that while some of the wards have already been named by donors who have given special sums, the children's ward which is to occupy the top floor of the new building has not yet been so named and we ask for a special donation of $20,000.00 for this purpose. We would also like to emphasise that any donation now given means the addition of a similar amount by the Government, making every donation of double value.

The past and present nurses continued with the collecting of their "Mile of Dollars," and the total received by them up to 31st December 1935 was $12,656.51. We are very much indebted to them for their energy and perseverance. Further sums have been received during 1936, and although a considerable sum still remains to be collected, in June the Executive Committee felt justified in signing the Contract for the new building. The Contract is for 14 months as from 1st July so that the building should be completed by September 1937, by which time it is hoped that the total sum will have been received and we appeal to all our friends to help us to reach our objective.

SUBSCRIBERS THANKED

We should like to thank all who have subscribed to the general and building funds during the year, and all who have helped us in other ways. Our Honorary Treasurers, Mr. Forsyth and Mr. Sommarfelt of Messrs. Linstead and Davis have had extra work in connection with the building fund and we should like to thank them for their services and Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews for again auditing the accounts.

Dr. Hoagling has continued to help us with the gynaecological out-patients and has kindly promised to give extra help during Dr. Sydenham's furlough which commences in May 1936. Dr. J. H. Montgomery has again treated cases requiring radium, and Dr. Ernest To has frequently X-rayed patients for us. Dr. A. V. O'Connell and Dr. R. S. Bogle of the Government Bacteriological Department have given us very generously of their time in examining and reporting on pathological specimens and their opinions have been of the greatest value to us in our work. Dr. J. C. MacGown and Dr. J. W. Anderson have given valuable advice and help during the year. We should like to assure all these that their assistance is greatly appreciated.

With these few remarks I have pleasure in proposing the adoption of the report and Statement of Accounts.

Rising to second the adoption of the report, Dr. J. W. Anderson said that he wished to associate himself with the remarks made by the Chairman in his reference to the late Dr. Gibson. The latter had been a splendid example to members of his profession.

Great credit was also due to the nursing staff of the hospital and they were to be congratulated for the good work performed during the year under great difficulties. The report was adopted unanimously.

ESTIMATES INCREASE

Presenting the estimates for this year, Dr. B. M. Alderton said that there was an increase to be noted under the heading "salaries, and wages," which was $24,200 this year in comparison with $19,468.52 last year. This was partially due to the present low value of the dollar and because the special salary fund was exhausted.

Expenditure in medicines, surgical dressing and instruments was also slightly increased but the figure ($5,900) was less than the average for the past four years.

The estimated deficit of $9,700 for the year's working was due, in the main, to the demolition of the Netherse Hospital, which meant a loss of income from patients and donations.

The Hon. Mr. Hughes, in seconding the estimates, said that the hospitals, similar to many enterprises at the moment, were suffering from a lack of income. With the erection of the new building, the position would be much alleviated.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Chairman: Hon. Dr. S. W. To. Deputy Chairman: Hon. Mr. A. V. Hughes.

Executive Committee: Hon. Mr. T. N. Chan, Hon. Dr. R. H. Kow-wai, Hon. Sir Henry Pollock, Hon. Mr. A. G. W. Tickle, and Mr. Tang Shiu Kin.

A vote of thanks to the Deputy Chairman for presiding at the meeting and to the Hong Kong Jockey Club for the use of the board room, was proposed by Dr. Alderton and passed with acclamation.

morning of July 6, and procured a boat for three Europeans to cross the harbour.

Chan Tung, the coxswain of the boat, "Tin Lee," gave the same evidence as the canvasser.

Guan Nabl, assistant warden at the Lai Chi Kok Female Prison said that he was on duty on the morning of July 6, when he noticed a car coming from the direction of Castle Peak, which halted near the prison. He saw three Europeans get out, and walk quickly away in the direction of Shamshuipo.

N. F. Barham, a lance-corporal in the Military Police, deposed that at 4.10 a.m. he saw the three defendants come up the hill to Wellington Barracks. He followed, and overtook them, and recognised Brown. Upon being questioned, the first accused replied that they had been out for a walk, as they were fed up.

The second accused, Brown, tried to hit him, but missed. With the aid of R.M. Bush, who testified next, they put the three men in the guard room, where their belongings were searched. On Brown, they discovered the torch, and the whistle.

Sergeant H. Bradford said that he was called to the guard room at 4.30 a.m. and added that the defendants were definitely sober. Sergeant C. H. Goodwin, of the Hong Kong Police, said that he was on duty when the complainant came into the office in a dazed condition with the left side of his face swollen and lacerated, and with marks of a severe beating having been administered.

ACCUSED TESTIFY
At the afternoon session, all three accused preferred to give evidence on oath.

Todd, the first accused, said that the driver was not robbed at all. When they could not recognise where they were, he ordered the cab driver to stop. The driver started the car, and he and Brown gave chase. He never saw the torch, nor did he see the whistle.

Upon questioning by Mr. Williams he said that he did not lay hands on the driver and did not know how the torch came to be in the suitcase. The ties in question must have dropped from his pockets. The object of taking the man out of the taxi was to secure the cab to take them where they wanted to go.

Brown deposed that he was not guilty of robbery. He admitted striking the driver, and rendering him unconscious, after which they left him by the side of the road.

Brown continued that he threw the watch away, and took the torch as it might come in handy at a later date.

Harker said that he had nothing to say in his defence. He merely accompanied the other two.

Mr. Williams said that he did not desire to address the Court. The jury returned within ten minutes, having reached the decision, unanimously, that all three defendants were guilty.

The Chief Justice, Sir Atholl MacGregor, said that the act was a particularly cruel and cowardly one in attacking the taxi driver. They were found guilty on the clearest evidence, and the offence was made greater because they were riflemen in the Royal Ulster Rifles. It was disgraceful, not only to themselves, but it brought discredit on the regiment to which they belonged. The fact that the third defendant did not participate in the violence would be remembered when he gave sentence. He then sentenced the first two accused, Todd and Brown, to two years' imprisonment with hard labour, and the third accused, Harker, to 18 months' with hard labour.

General Yu Hon-mou, Pacification Commissioner of Kwangtung and concurrently Commander-in-Chief of the Fourth Route Army, has pointed a director of political training for each of his ten divisions with the object of turning out a first rate national army.

The Fourth Route Army issued a statement recently heartily welcoming the arrival of General Chiang Kai-shek in Canton. The statement points out that General Chiang is consolidating the country to ward off outside interference and support the generalissimo's programme of the reforms for Kwangtung and China.

NEWSConsolidated Mines To Issue More Shares

Consolidated Mines stock reached a new all-time high of P.05 per share a few days ago, with 14,090,000 shares changing hands. This issue led all other mining shares on the Manila Stock Exchange in a hectic day during a new average price of 204.5 was set.

The board of directors of Consolidated Mines has announced the release of approximately 60,000,000 shares of authorized but unissued capital stock to shareholders, at two centavos per share. All shareholders of record on August 22 will have the right to subscribe to this stock to the extent of 20 per cent. of their respective holdings, or at the rate of the new share for each five shares held.

The company plans to use the P1,200,000 which will thus be raised chiefly to finance the development of the gold-bearing property known as Tumbaga, in the Paracale district, and the purchase and construction of a mill when and if this is warranted. It also will be used towards the completion of development work on other projects on which Consolidated Mines is working.

In order that shareholders who might not be able to purchase their allotment of the new issue may profit, the company has arranged to issue warrants to each shareholder representing subscription rights; these warrants may be sold. Notice of the proposition was mailed to the shareholders recently. Since the date of sending out the warrants will be August 22 those who have purchased stock but who had it transferred will have ample time to do this.

Courtney Whitney, R. P. Flood, Victoriano Elcano, and G. O. Scarfe, all officials of the company, will pay in cash P500,000 in payment of their allotments of the new issue, the Manila office of Consolidated Mines told the Bulletin.

MARKET IN U.S.

The investigations now being conducted in the United States by Mr. Whitney, president, and Mr. Scarfe, chief engineer, of Consolidated Mines, with reference to the company's chromite deposits in Zamboanga, have resulted in highly encouraging revelations, according to the Manila office of the company.

It has been proved, through exhaustive tests, that the ore is entirely suitable for metallurgical and refractory use. The metallurgist who worked on the ore with Mr. Scarfe, R. R. Bryan, is now on the staff of Consolidated Mines.

Reports from Mr. Scarfe are to the effect that a highly favourable market for the company's product exists in the United States. New uses for chromite are being developed regularly, and it is generally felt that the present known reserves of high grade ore will be exhausted in from five to ten years.

OFFERS REJECTED

Mr. Scarfe estimates that the chrome will yield a net profit of not less than $8 per ton, and that the operation should result in a net income of more than a million dollars yearly within two years, with unlimited future possibilities.

Mr. Flood, chairman of the board of directors, calls attention to the fact that Mr. Whitney had received several attractive offers from New York financial interests for purchases of large blocks of treasury stock of the company. All such offers were refused, according to Mr. Flood, as being opposed to the best interests of the company and its stockholders.

Proposals for the outright sale of the property to American interests have likewise been rejected, because it is felt that the prospects of profit to the stockholders far outweigh any possible quick profit which might be derived from an outright sale under present conditions.
